If you have ever dreamed about being a Pokemon master, this is going to be about as close as you can get. With tons of unique pokemon to catch and some unique to certain areas, this mobile game is something you'll be able to play on going for a long time. Build a perfect team of Pokemon and become a master by training them to the highest levels.

Since it's release, this game has received several updates, adding lots of great features. There is a battle system to compete against friends and others. You can share stickers and in game items with friends and buddy up and build relationships with your favorite Pokemon. Raid gyms have been built out, allowing you and other players to go up against big and powerful Pokemon to capture them and gain fun rewards. There's even a story, with a main antagonist, Team Go Rocket, just like in the games and shows!

There are some companion apps as well, that have been developed to work alongside Pokemon

Go. Let's Go Pikachu! And Let's Go Eevee! on the Nintendo switch have ways to tie in and existing accessories like the PokeBall Plus work as well. So if you're in the Pokemon ecosystem already, there's even more incentive and content to enjoy. The game has made steps to allow some form of remote playability with the current world situation, which makes this game just as safe to play as ever.

If you haven't jumped on this bandwagon or maybe haven't played since it's release, this is definitely worth checking out again.

Advantages / Disadvantages

Lots of content, and a stunning take on Pokemon. Hard to do if you're not in an urban area.

This game is incredibly deep, with more and more content being continually added. There are tons of Pokemon events to participate in and overall quality content to enjoy.

It's even healthy and gets you outside to walk around. There are integrations with other Pokemon games and accessories that can work alongside the game if you really get into it.

The game shows no signs of slowing down and is a solid time investment if you're looking for something that will continue to evolve and grow. This game can be overwhelming with the amount of things there are to do.

There are some things locked away to only certain areas or regions, which can be a bummer since travel is hard and expensive. Additionally if you live in rural areas, there won't be too many Pokemon, Pokestops, or other in game events to interact with. This game is best enjoyed by walking around populated areas.
